AN ARTISTIC INTERIOR.

The car is built entirely of mahogany, finished with inlaid work and mosaic lines. It is remarkable for its plain, natural effect, there being no mouldings, and entirely plain surfaces are seen in all directions. The doors are of solid wood, broken with inlaid lines and mosaic work. The ceilings are dome-shape, the high lights being ornamented with gold. The upholstery of the body of the car is an olive green, special pattern. One of the state-rooms in this car is upholstered in red silk tapestry, with draperies, carpets, etc., to harmonize. The general style of decoration is known as the Coolidge inlaid design.

The above description refers to one of the cars now in service on the new

Opinions of People You Know

In regard to

The International Magazine

Now in its FOURTH VOLUME.

From Dr. Wm. H. Vibbert,
Vicar of Trinity Chapel, New York.

I began to look over the copies of THE INTERNATIONAL you sent me with some curiosity as to the nature and scope of this new Chicago monthly, but soon was reading with profit and interest.

From the sterling merits of some of the articles and the pleasing and popular character of others, from the wide range of literature that you lay under contribution, as well as from the excellence of the translations, and from the fact that you aim to keep abreast of the times, the future of your magazine seems bright and hopeful. I am sure it is a pleasure to me to commend to the reading public so bright, clean and interesting monthly, as one of which Chicago may be proud.

From Hon. Lambert Free,
Ex-Minister to Russia.

I congratulate you on the success which you have made with THE INTERNATIONAL, and I am proud that Chicago has the honor of being selected as the place of publication and distribution, of a magazine conducted on lines so broad as to lead our countrymen away from their own backyards to the contemplation of fields beyond the seas.

To be in touch with the intellectual movement in all other lands, is to diminish the evil effects of provincialism in our own. An end much to be desired.

The foreign subjects selected for your magazine, as well as their translation, are in my opinion, excellent, and the illustrations admirably executed, while the original articles are most interesting.

I am altogether delighted with the numbers I have thus far read, and wish you the highest degree of appreciation from the public, which your publication so richly deserves.

From Dr. Henry Wade Rogers,
President Northwestern University.

I have noted with much satisfaction the success of THE INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE, and I am very glad that we are publishing right here in Chicago a Journal so worthy of support. It ought to have a wide constituency—if this has not already been secured it is certain to come.

The articles of fiction published in THE INTERNATIONAL have been of a high quality, while those of a more serious character have been interesting and valuable.

I heartily congratulate you on what you have accomplished, and trust that the present prosperity of the magazine will be largely enhanced.

From Rabbi Emil G. Hirsch,
Professor in University of Chicago.

I have been for some time an occasional, but always an interested reader, of THE INTERNATIONAL. I do not scruple to say that I have found in no other magazine so much matter which is both entertaining and highly instructive. Being acquainted with many of the foreign languages I have been surprised at the elegance and fidelity of your "englishing."

You certainly deserve the loyal support of all lovers of good and stimulating reading.

From Rt. Rev. Samuel Fallows, D. D.,
Bishop of Reformed Episcopal Church, Chicago.

I heartily congratulate the editor and publishers of THE INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE on the success which has thus far crowned their efforts.

The articles, illustrations and press work put it in the front rank of the serial publications of the nation.

Chicago ought to be proud of such a literary production, and the country at large but especially the great West ought to give it a most liberal patronage.

Chicagoans especially are invited to subscribe to
